Advanced Programming Practice · 21CSC203P

Unit 3 · Session 2 · SLO 2 — Solved Worksheet

Name: DEEP SAND DEEP SAND | Reg. No: RA2511026010557

Unit – 3 : Session – 2 : SLO – 2 | Creating Threads with Runnable

Worksheet (Answers)

• Fill: In Java, a class implements the RUNNABLE interface to create a thread using Runnable.
• T/F: The run() method must be defined when implementing Runnable. — TRUE
• MCQ: Correct way to create a thread using Runnable → A) new Thread(new MyRunnable()).start();
• Fill: The Runnable interface belongs to the java.lang PACKAGE.
• T/F: Runnable can be used to create multiple threads sharing the same task. — TRUE
• MCQ: Keyword used when a class uses the Runnable interface → B) implements
• Fill: The run() method of a Runnable object is invoked by the THREAD class.
• T/F: Runnable allows better separation of thread creation and task definition. — TRUE
• MCQ: Advantage of Runnable over extending Thread → B) Allows sharing the same task between threads
• Fill: A thread is started by calling the START() method on the Thread object.